that. It's civil liberties etcetera, etcetera," he said.

The former owner of the Sweet Briar Motel, Ange Raimo, was arrested in 2008 during a traffic stop for possession of heroin and attempt to distribute heroin. He was additionally charged with two counts of promoting prostitution.

Lower Township police were called to the Sweet Briar Motel 154 times in 2005, 129 times in 2006 and 91 times in 2007.

Discussion at the county mayors luncheon two weeks ago centered on a solution, focusing on the creation of a place for the homeless rather than motels, Beck said.

"The whole system is controlled at social services and the information is unavailable," Beck said.

He said the vast majority of people who seek placement are there legitimately and are not causing problems. Beck said the bulk of the problems are not in Lower Township at this time.

Township Council passed a resolution March 7 urging the Department of Human Services to approve a memorandum of understanding between the county and the Atlantic City Rescue Mission for emergency housing.

The resolution stated the rescue mission has expressed an interest in providing service to Cape May County's homeless population, noting the organization currently has memorandums of understanding with Cumberland, Ocean and Atlantic counties to accept vouchers to house, train and counsel the homeless.

"Whereas there exists a memorandum of understanding which currently remains in the hands of the Department of Human Services and is yet to be approved, all the while the homeless population of Cape May County continues to be placed in local motels with no on-site job training or counseling ..." stated the resolution.

It noted Atlantic City Rescue Mission worked with more than 50 agencies to provide job training, drug, alcohol and spiritual counseling, life skills training and provide safe and secure temporary housing for those in need.

Beck questioned if homeless people would get on a bus to Atlantic City.

"You need to have something that's in the area and in some point in time hopefully that will occur," he said.

Councilman Erik Simonsen said the Jersey Shore Motel, the former Sweet Briar, was under 24-hour surveillance. He said owner Fabio Pawlus installed his own camera system which the police department can also access.

Councilman Tom Conrad said Pawlus has rules for the motel that he enforces.

Safety

Plans call for Lower Township to be a tenant in the building, occupying about 55 percent of the structure. Last year, Township Council approved turning over the township's public safety building to the county, which will in turn reconstruct the World War II-era structure and lease Lower Township half the building for a police station. The cost of renovating the building was estimated at $4 million.

The renovations will involve modernization of the building with a future merging of county dispatch with county emergency management dispatch.
